Aspen Avionics Announces the Release of Version 2.1 Software Upgrade Kit for Evolution Flight Displays

Affordable software upgrade introduces new enhancements

Albuquerque, NM, January 7, 2010: Aspen Avionics, Inc. announced that a new version 2.1 software upgrade kit for the Aspen EFD1000 Primary Flight Display and the EFD1000/EFD500 Multi-Function Display is now available through its authorized dealers. This latest upgrade includes enhancements to the panning functions, navigation map and auto-ranging features of the Evolution Flight Displays.

"The Evolution line of flight displays is designed to provide affordable upgrade options for our customers," said Brad Hayden, Aspen Avionics' Director of Marketing. "The release of this version 2.1 software upgrade kit, and the benefits it brings to all currently installed Evolution systems, is another example of Aspen's commitment to providing general aviation aircraft with expandable and upgradable cockpit systems."

An authorized Aspen Avionics dealer must perform the version 2.1 software upgrade. A complete list of Aspen dealers can be found at
